GIBSON TRIO COMING BACK TO THE BOOKER WASHINGTON THEATRE NEXT WEEK

The sensational Gibson Trio will play a return engagement at the Booker Washington Theatre next week. This trio features a little girl dancer who took the knee by storm a couple of weeks ago with her wonderful act.

Another return will be the team of Goldman and Goldman, who won the prize of the thespians with one of the classic musical acts ever presented on this stage. Others on the bill will be Mabley and Broadway, and the Cornell Trio. The above combination needs no superfluous boosting. It is good and a roll the show can be in.

The third round of "The Leather Pushers" will be shown the entire week. This special picture feature is making a big hit with the patrons.

Amateur Night
This Friday will be the first "Amateur Night" instead of the 20th as first announced. Every Friday hereafter all amateurs will be given an opportunity. Any who so desire should communicate with Mr. Chas. H. Tarpin at the theatre last night.

THIS WEEK'S SHOW AT R. W. THEATRE IS A WINNER

The show at the Booker Washington Theatre this week is good enough to place the week's most critical prize. It is a winner, with plenty of variety.

Clara Smith opens the show with three song numbers put out in her characteristic breezy style. They are "I've Got the Wonderful World", "The World and When I'm Coming Back", "The World", and "When I'm Coming Back".

Nice Smith is reviewing the hit she made with "The World" company.

The Goodies, Walter and Virginia, are a musical pair. They have three good song numbers, and then a duo on the symphony. They score a decisive hit with "Leave Me With a Smile" and "When I'm Coming Back".

Johnnie Woods, the ragtime pianist, is next. Henry is hiding in a rubbish can when discovered. He has the "hairs" in a quizzical mood. Only a couple of "jabs" will bring him to his senses. A theme in "The Battle" gets him "lipped". He really enjoys the result. Henry is so natural that the crowd screams over his funny doings and acts.

"Butter Beans" Edwards and Susie are making their usual tremendous hit. They open and close in a storm of excitement, keeping the audience laughing all the while. "That's the Way" "Shakin'" and Susie follows with "When My Man Rhinestone I'm Bound To Fall". Butterbeans follows with "That Some Day" and "Carry Me Back". After a few humorous sayings the team closes with "I'm Going Back to It If I Like It". This is one team which performs every night. They are in to be real funny without being vulgar.

"PAY DAY" AT THE R. W.

The big basket that holds the pay envelopes at the Booker Washington Theatre every Monday night is getting fuller and fuller. Last night's pay week that the patrons draw their pay out of the theatre. The envelopes are valued at $5. Each Sunday is valued at $40 or a pair of diamonds. The following are some of the persons who received the biggest take last Monday. Many will not permit the signing names of the hundreds who receive sums of one to less than five dollars, or less than $10 in cash.
